The Meredith Riding School is situated at Brackley in Northants, which is in the centre of the finest hunting in England, on the borders of the Bicester and Grafton countries, and within easy striking distance of the Whaddon Chase, Heythrop and Warwickshire.

Here too, there are excellent facilities for hacking over delightful country, with acres of grass land and many bridle paths. There is an absolute minimum of tarmac, and where this exists, and has to be frequented by equestrians, there are convenient and good verges at the roadsides.

Good reliable hacks, and children's ponies are always available for hire.

Catering for the hunting community is made a speciality, and only the best and most trusted hunters which thoroughly know their job are kept for hiring purposes.

Children are especially catered for with suitable ponies upon which they are escorted, and also tutored in all matters appertaining to hunting etiquette.

Teaching is under the care of folk thoroughly acquainted with that art. Every care and personal attention is given to beginners and nervous riders. Not only is a speciality made of this, but riders who wish to improve their horsemanship are instructed in all the finer points of equitation by experts.

The teaching of children is a special feature. The young are encouraged to attend, and are taken to the pony club rallies in the vicinity and are also initiated in the arts and crafts appertaining to the show ring, and showing themselves, with a view to giving them confidence and poise.

The school also undertakes to break, train, and improve young, difficult and fractious horses. Re-mouthing a speciality.

Schooling and training horses and ponies for the show ring have met with splendid results at the school, which is open to receive this class of animal, and give it the final polish and finish so necessary to success in this branch of horsemanship.

Horses taken at livery at reasonable rates, and given that personal care and individual attention so necessary to their well-being and appearance. There are good roomy loose boxes, abundance of forage, good bedding and ample water.
